This travel sounds like a vacation, which is not appropriate for a defendant who is facing sentencing and may have a restitution, fine and/or forfeiture obligation, unless his financial situation is such that the cost of the trip will not impact his ability to satisfy any financial obligations that may accrue at sentencing. If it is not a vacation, or if Defendant has enough money that he could meet all possible financial obligations and still take this trip, he may apply again with more information.

Re: United States v. Antonio Santiago
7:19-cr-00375-CS

Dear Judge Seibel:

We write to request permission for Mr. Santiago to travel to Orlando, Florida with his children on December 12th through December 16th, 2019. Please know they have not yet made hotel reservations pending your approval.

Please know that the Government and Pre-Trial Services do not object to this modification.

Thank you in advance for your consideration in this matter.

Respectfully submitted,

Deveraux L. Cannick
